Two Runs in Ninth Enables Narberth to Nose Out Berwyn 8-7; Babb Fans 11

Jones Scores Big Run in Final Conto After Miscue by Paist

WAS HECTIC STRUGGLE

By JOHN MULLIGAN
By scoring two runs in the ninth inning, the first of which was the result of perhaps the most nerve-tangling play witnessed on the local diamond this season, Narberth added another Main Line League victory to its books last Saturday by nosing out Berwyn, 8-7.

Coming to the plate with the score knotted at 6-up after a nip-and-tuck battle every minute, the Boroughites pushed across what looked like the deciding run, and it was lucky for the men of Gene Davis that they added another for good measure, since Clarence Achuff's tossers dented the plate once in their half and almost sent it into extra innings.

Bob Jones, fleet-footed right fielder of the home team, opened the final canto with a short pop-fly back of shortstop, which should have been taken by him. However, Bob Paist came charging in like a tornado, and the ball bounced out of his mitt as though it had hit a stone wall.

Shrewd Walt MacGregor was next to use the willow and pulled a surprise play by dragging a bunt toward second, which caught Dal Little out of position, and it went for a hit, as Jones tore around the bases. The Narberth short field guardian then tried to steal second and was thrown out, but while the play was being completed Jones whizzed home from third and what appeared to be the important marker was written into the records.

Bob Gilfillan drew a pass and singles by Barney Slaughter and Charley Carroll accounted for the second run.

But Berwyn was not whipped yet—far from it. The visitors put a man on the lanes when Angie DeShula reached first safely on an error and continued to second. After two had been retired, Bill Eadie was sent in to pinch-hit for Dal Little and poled a double to Windsor avenue, sending Angie home with the bacon. Pitcher George Babb bore down, however, and struck out hard-hitting Christy Cumberton, ending the game.

Prior to the exciting climax, the fans had witnessed another big inning, the eighth, when Narberth broke a 5-5 tie, only to see the invaders retaliate with one of their own to match it.

Incidentally Pitchers George Babb and Johnny Burns, working for Narberth and Berwyn, respectively, contributed the timely blows which meant a run apiece. In the ultimate winners' half, Charley Carroll slashed a double and went to third on a passed ball. Babb then slapped a clean single through the box and it looked as if this would be the deciding blow of the game.

In Berwyn's end of the session, Christy Cumberton, got hold of Babb's slow ball and sledged it far to the

Edgar Addresses Rotary
Robert J. Edgar, of Narberth, was the speaker Tuesday at the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club, addressing the members on the subject of the use of wild flowers for home planting.

Mr. Edgar discussed a large number of native plants and shrubs which can be planted in gardens and bog developments around private homes. He praised the plants of Penn's Woods for garden use, pointing out that they yielded nothing in beauty to vegetation imported from other countries.

Narberth B. & L. Pays
Checks were mailed last week by the Narberth Building and Loan to shareholders in a series matured by the directors at their last meeting. The series, a short term group, was matured in seven years, and paid to the shareholders their original investment and approximately six per cent profit.

New series will be opened at the next meeting of the Association, September 1st. Both long and short term shares will be offered to those adopting this method of regular saving.

Committee Chairmen Named by Players

Narberth Dramatic Organization Meets at Home of J. Bedford Wooley

TO PRODUCE 3 PLAYS

Chairman of committees for the coming season were announced by W. Russell Green, president of the Narberth Players' Club, at a meeting held Tuesday night at the home of J. Bedford Wooley, Penn Valley.

They are as follows, with the exception of few yet to be appointed: Business affairs, Alan J. Smith; coaching, Mrs. Bert Simpson; contact, Mrs. C. Arley Farmer; costumes, Mrs. William Loughlin; scenery, Mr. Wooley. V. O. Krauskop was named electrician for the organization.

It was decided at a discussion of plans for the year that the policy would remain the same and that three plays would be produced for the membership of the organization and the general public.

The Players are desirous of having anyone interested in any phase of dramatic work become connected with the organization. Inquiries should be addressed to the treasurer, Mrs. Jesse S. Harris, 135 Merion avenue, Narberth.

At the next meeting of the club, which will be held on September 13, the plays to be produced during the coming season will be selected and plans for the year completed.

Officers of the organization are: W. Russell Green, president; J. Bedford Wooley, vice-president; Mrs. John Nash, secretary, and Mrs. Jesse S. Harris, treasurer.

Field Day to be Held Next Friday

Prizes to be Awarded Following Treasure Hunt at Playground

ATTENDANCE IS HIGH

Field Day on the Narberth Playground will be held next Friday, starting at 2 P. M. There will be races and activities for everyone from six to twenty years of age.

As inaugurated last year there will be a treasure hunt for everyone. At this time prizes for tournament and league winners will be awarded by a membership of the Narberth Recreation Board.

Attendance average for the past week—151 morning, 159 afternoon; average 310.

There will be a Volleyball tournament next Tuesday afternoon, for the Senior boys and girls. Commencing at 2.30 P. M.

Crosson Funeral Was Held Last Saturday

Military Honors Paid Former Captain in United States Marine Corps

SUCCUMBED TO STROKE

Funeral services were held last Saturday at St. Margaret's Church, Narberth, for Captain William J. Crosson, United States Marine Corps, who died suddenly last Wednesday night in the University Hospital, Philadelphia.

Captain Crosson, who lived at 509 Haverford avenue, had been ill for only a few days, and succumbed to a stroke. He was 56.

Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated at the church and military honors were paid by a detachment of members of the Marine Corps in uniform. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

A daughter of Captain Crosson's, Mrs. Irving Lusher, of Hamilton, Bermuda, arrived in Narberth just in time for the funeral, having made the last lap of her journey by airplane.

Captain Crosson was a member of the Marine Corps for thirty-eight years, having served in the Spanish-American War, and with the Corps during the Mexican border troubles. During the World War he was purchasing agent at the Marine Depot of Supplies, Washington. A resident of Narberth for the past nine years, he was a member of the American Legion, and an active supporter of community affairs.

He suffered a stroke a year ago, after the tragic death of his daughter, Miss Mabel Crosson, who fell from the window of a New York Hotel.

Captain Crosson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jane Morris Crosson, and three daughters, Mrs. Lusher, Miss Gertrude Crosson and Mother Mary Bernice, a nun of the Convent of the Holy Child, Sharon Hill.

Eighth Grade Pupils, Retained at Borough School, to Have Strengthened Program

When the Narberth Public Schools open for the Fall term on Wednesday, September 7, the Eighth Grade pupils will again report to the Borough School.

Last March a petition was filed with the Narberth School Board by a Citizens' Committee, representing parents of pupils and residents recommending that "if humanly possible" the Eighth Grade be sent back to Lower Merion Junior High School.

At its April meeting, when the Budget for the year 1932-33 was adopted, the Board decided to retain the Eighth Grade at Narberth. In a statement issued at the time the Board said financial difficulties made it entirely impracticable at that time and that the tax rate would have to be in-

Main Line Man to Coach Princeton Nine

John H. Jefferies, Jr., of Penn Valley, Appointed Head Coach

WAS NARBERTH STAR

John H. Jefferies, Jr., of Arlington road, Penn Valley, a star on the Narberth baseball team for over a dozen years, has been selected as head coach for the Princeton 'Varsity baseball team next spring, it was announced this week by T. J. Davis, supervisor of sports at Princeton University.

Mr. Jefferies, who was a member of the Class of 1923 at Princeton, has been coaching since his graduation. He attended the Narberth Public School, Haverford School and Peddie School.

While a Princeton undergraduate Mr. Jefferies captained the baseball and basketball teams. The nine under his leadership established the best record of any Princeton team since 1901, winning 19 straight games, and ending the season with a record of 22 victories to four defeats.

For the past eight years he has coached the freshman basketball team and, since 1925, has been assistant 'varsity coach as well. He has been assistant baseball coach, working under Harry Hooper for the last two years. Since 1928 he has been an assistant coach of intramural football, and last fall assisted in training the 150-pound team. He has also coached at several preparatory schools. At Swarthmore Prep he coached football three years and baseball two years; at Hill he coached basketball and helped with the baseball squad one year; he was baseball coach at Hun for one year.

In addition to these years of coaching, Mr. Jefferies is further qualified by minor league and semi-pro baseball experience. In 1924 he played with the Reading club of the International League and the New Haven club of the Eastern League.

Mr. Jefferies has lived in Narberth practically all his life until moving into his Penn Valley home recently. His first instruction in basketball was received from Dr. Romaine C. Hoffman, in the old Narberth Y. M. C. A. He married a Narberth girl, Miss Martha Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Martin, of Wayne avenue.

Narberth and Ardmore Men Granted Patents

Albert L. Lambert, of 612 Shady lane, Narberth, and Allan R. Day, of 29 Wellington road, Ardmore, are two Main Line inventors who have been granted patents by the United States Patent Office.

The Ardmore man won a patent on a catalyst for vapor phase oxidation of organic compounds. As the technician describes it, the new production comprises "metallic silver with the addition of a small amount of a rare earth oxide."

Lambert's patent is on an air cooling cabinet in connection with a method for preventing condensation of moisture on the cabinet. The method is explained as "passing the air to be cooled over the inner surfaces of the walls and maintaining such temperature for the stratum of air next to said walls that the temperature of the outer surfaces of the outer walls is above the condensation point of the outside air."

Reports of Keighton's Condition Are Termed Greatly Exaggerated

Reports that the Rev. Robert E. Keighton, pastor of the Baptist Church of the Evangel, Narberth, was in a serious condition from over-exertion at his cottage in Ocean City as the result of running half a mile to be of assistance in what he believed to be an airplane catastrophe, were termed greatly exaggerated by H. Boardman Hopper, of Berkeley road, Merion, a close friend and member of his church, yesterday.

Mr. Hooper stated that he had been in communication with neighbors following the reputed incident and that there was no basis for the report that Mr. Keighton was in a serious condition. He is understood to be suffering from an attack of grippie.

Mr. Keighton, whose home is at 216 Avon road, Narberth, is spending the summer with his mother at a cottage at 59 Garden road, Ocean City.

The exaggerated report of Mr. Keighton's condition appeared in a Philadelphia daily paper and others.

Miami Beach Girls Provide Entertainment

Farcical Affair Provides Boro Fans With Amusement Monday

LOSE TO SOUTH PHILS

By JOHN MULLIGAN
Gene Davis' Narberth team demonstrated the two extremes in scheduling diamond entertainment during the week by "playing" the Miami Beach Girls on Monday and then locking horns with the powerful South Phillies for the Wednesday after-supper menu.

Having affairs with those of the opposite sex usually develops strange things, and this game with the pretty misses was no exception, only in a different sense. Without a doubt the Daisens could have run up a score which would look like a telephone number, yet were satisfied with an 8-3 conquest. They lost to the South Phils by a 3-1 count.

The Miami game was nothing short of a farce. The Main Liners "showed off" for the benefit of the visiting girls in great form, especially a cute

Boro and Cynwyd May get New Post Offices

Reported to be on List for Appropriations From Congress

OFFICIALS ARE SKEPTICAL

Narberth and Bala-Cynwyd are reported to be on a list of new post offices, authorized by Congress, on which construction may begin before next Spring. According to reports $90,000 has been appropriated for each.

Neither Postmasters J. Bertram Nesper, of Narberth, nor Joseph F. Dolan, of Bala-Cynwyd, credit the rumors of governmental appropriations with much authenticity.

The Narberth Post Office building was built in 1928 by Joseph P. White and leased to the government for six years, leaving a year and a half to run. At Bala-Cynwyd the post office building, formerly owned by the Merion Title and Trust Company, now in the hands of the State Secretary of Banking, is under a lease which expires April 1, 1934.

It has been rumored in Cynwyd that the government might buy the building and remodel the structure, making it all a postal building, instead of half, as at present.

It is reported that the inter-departmental committee of U. S. Treasury officials will decide shortly which of the 233 post office buildings throughout the country will be started first.

Both Mr. Nesper and Mr. Dolan state that they have received no official word about plans for new postal buildings.

Ardmore and Haverford are other Main Line communities said to be on the list for new post offices. Postmaster Joseph M. Baltz, of Ardmore, denies that there is anything to rumors for a new Ardmore Post Office.

Two New Cases of Paralysis Discovered

One Reported in Narberth and Other in Cynwyd; Seven Last Week

PRECAUTIONS OUTLINED

Two new cases of infantile paralysis, one in Narberth and one in Cynwyd, were reported this week.

Seven cases were reported by the Lower Merion Board of Health last week, resulting in the death of Joseph Waters, aged 5, 23 E. Spring avenue, Ardmore, and Cecelia Regelman, aged 4, 1053 Markee Terrace, Bryn Mawr.

The new Narberth case, James Brannen, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Brannen, 227 Price avenue, was discovered last Friday and sent to the Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia, for observation. Examination by the child's physician, Dr. Howard Carpenter, head of the Children's Hospital, confirmed the diagnosis. He was given serum and a blood transfusion and is reported to be getting along well. The boy is a student at Waldron Academy, Merion.

The new case to develop in Lower Merion, John Newcomb, aged 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Newcomb, of 349 Bala avenue, Cynwyd, was discovered on Tuesday. He is being kept under observation and treatment at his home. He attends the Cynwyd School.

Three previous cases have been reported in Narberth, all of which were sent to Bryn Mawr Hospital, and reported fully recovered. A quarantine established in the Borough by the Narberth Board of Health, was lifted July 30.

In a statement issued yesterday the Lower Merion Board of Health outlined precautions which should be observed. It reads:

"More than the usual care should be exercised to maintain the best of health. Children, especially, should avoid places of amusement or crowds. It is safer to avoid church schools also, although the danger there is less than in amusement halls, as children almost invariably go to Sunday School in their best bib and tucker and after a good scrubbing.

"Avoid swimming pools and polluted streams, unless you are certain they are under supervision of the State and your local Board.

"Live out-doors as much as possible, avoid over-fatigue, be temperate in all things.

"The local Board immediately consulted with the State Health Department when the first increase of cases was reported and physicians were notified. Our people should also feel added confidence in the watchfulness of the Board when they remember that Dr. John H. Kolmer is consultant to the Board, ready at all times to give his advice and help in every condition requiring special care. Dr. Kolmer is an expert of National reputation in conditions of this kind.

"The disease is not epidemic in Lower Merion or in Philadelphia. There is no reason for fear, even though there is every reason for watchfulness and the exercise of every precaution."

Penalty Added September 3 on 1931 Per Capita Taxes

Extension has been made to September 3, 1932, for the payment of 1931 per capita taxes, Narberth Tax Collector Edwin P. Dold stated this week. Final notices for the 1931 taxes were mailed July 15, Mr. Dold said, giving 30 days before additional costs would be added for collection.

The Tax Collector will be at the Narberth National Bank at the following times to receive taxes: This Friday evening, from 7 to 9; this Saturday, from 9 to 12 noon; Friday evening, August 26, from 7 to 9; Friday evening, September 2, from 7 to 9 P. M.; Saturday, September 3, from 9 to 12 noon.

Errors and corrections may be adjusted and payments made. On Monday, September 5, all unpaid bills will be given to deputy collector and costs added.

Garden Club Tuesday
The Penn Valley Garden Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Arthur Goldsmith, Montgomery avenue, Wynnewood, on Tuesday morning at 10.30.

Direct Help

Every time you place a can of beans or soup in one of the barrels in the Main Line stores, you are handing that much nourishment directly to some family who needs it more than you do. The beauty of this relief plan lies in the fact that it is a direct and complete form of aid. There are no expenses, and nothing is deducted from the total amount of food contributed.

The police, always on the job in welfare matters, are gathering the contributions into central sorting stations, and a group of women are volunteering their services to sort and distribute the goods. Thus, when you place an article of food in one of the barrels, it is as if you were handing it to someone in dire need, save that someone else is doing all the work for you, and carefully selecting the person to receive your aid.

The barrel is one of the finest means of direct aid ever adopted. It is successful whether the article be worth five cents or a dollar. Through its operation we can share with others as our means permit.

Let no shopping trip be ended without some sort of gift to the barrel.

BUSINESS BITS

Samples of the new line of Dolly Madison ice cream were given patrons who visited Davis' store in Narberth Monday night. Dolly Madison herself was there to do the honors. The confection is high in rich butter fat, and is being sold at Davis' in a variety of delicious flavors at only a nominal price. Hopes were expressed this week by a number of the Borough's business folk that a considerable business pick-up will take place next month. Some of the shopkeepers, who are in the merchant class, are planning sales programs to start the fall season. Wednesday night of last week, at the height of the storm, lights went off in the Haverford avenue business section from 7.30 to 10.40, which did not help business any. And on top of that, the water connections were shut off, while repairs were made of a leak on the Haverford avenue hill. The infantile paralysis scare caused a bad let-down in shopping during July. No wonder it's difficult for some of the business people to avoid showing gloomy faces, these sunshine-filled dog days. But soon will come Labor Day, and school-time and cool weather, and better times for all, it is to be hoped. (T. A. E.)

Ardmore Veterinarian Named Head of Springfield Hospital

Dr. A. R. Evans, Jr., son of Dr. Alex R. Evans, of 135 Cricket avenue, Ardmore, has been named head of the new Springfield branch of the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital of the Massachusetts S. P. C. A., which was dedicated last December.

Dr. Evans is a graduate of Lower Merion High School and of the veterinary department of the University of Pennsylvania.

Open Tournaments at Bridge Club Monday and Tuesday

The Narberth Bridge Club will hold an open Duplicate Contract Bridge Tournament next Monday evening in the club room at Elm Hall. There will be prizes and refreshments.

The Women's Division of the Club will hold an open tournament for the members and their friends on Tuesday afternoon in the club rooms.

Shreds & Patches

"Heigho!"

On the way to Clesson's river in the morning, The Vagrant met Terrence Muldoon again. It was a weekday, a working morning, yet here was Terrence foot-loose and free; he, who for five and one-half days each week, usually wastes his fine appreciation of the outdoors at an office desk. "Heigho! Terrence!" "Heigho! Vagrant!" were the greetings, and, falling in step, each one taking it for granted that the other had a destination in mind, off across the pastures they strode together. Finally, The Vagrant being winded by the combined efforts of talking and walking, they seated themselves on a hill-top ledge, lighted their pipes, and this is what Terrence had to say while The Vagrant recaptured his breath:

"Nice Walks"

"These holidays which the depression has forced on me have been a blessing in a left-handed sort of way, for I have been able to get in a few nice walks. One morning I went up on Catamount and finally found that old Farley burying ground. It is in the deep woods and has had no care for years, yet there are several stones standing and one grave is even decorated with a Revolutionary marker. I have always had it in my mind to hunt for it, but never had got around to it before. A few days ago I went down the railroad to where South Station used to be and hunted for an old and overgrown road that once ran east, around the mountain and out toward the county-seat. I found it and also a few orange milkweeds." Terrence smoked a while in silence, until his thoughts, running on submerged from the point where he had stopped, came to the surface again with the statement that on the previous Monday he had gone over into Wilcox's Hollow and beyond and gathered an armful of lavender balm which, botanist that he is, he called "monarda festulosa," as Linnaeus had before him. When The Vagrant inquired what he did on days when long walks were impossible, Terrence replied, "Just now I am reading Ivanhoe and I suppose that by the next time you see me I shall probably have gone back as far as the Rollo books."

Lights Out

Reading Thoreau one sultry evening last week, The Vagrant was greatly impressed and wished that he, too, might simplify his living to the barest essentials and then go and occupy a cabin on some Walden Pond. Of course, he thought, Thoreau was not married, but there is nothing in his precepts and experiences which would prevent a married couple from adopting his method of life. Certainly, The Vagrant could not inhabit a cabin and provide separate support for La Vagante; nor, as a matter of fact, would she consent to any such arrangement; obviously, she would have to be included. A contemplation of that decision immediately revealed that in the cabin she would contribute greatly to the comfort and support of The Vagrant which would be fine, but would it be Thoreauistic, if that is the proper adjective? Floating through The Vagrant's mind were visions of the spring return of the birds and the flowers; of summer sunrises, viewed from a boat on the pond; of winter days and evenings snug and undisturbed in the warm cabin. Outside a storm gathered and broke with thunderous fury, lashing the trees and raging through the open windows which La Vagante dashed wildly to close. Then the electric lights went out. Candles were substituted, but even a battery of six on the table provided inadequate light for the further perusal of Thoreau, and their combined heat was uncomfortable. An unpleasant hour passed with normal evening pursuits completely disorganized. There was some desultory conversation which languished because The Vagrant's mind centered solely on the electrical failure. He grew irritable, resolved to write to the Public Service Commission, Governor Pinchot or somebody. Then he telephoned the Light Company and learned that a falling tree had broken the wires—certainly an act of God for which no human failure could be blamed. Grumpily he went to bed by the light of one primitive candle and it was not until he lay there in the voluntary and pleasant darkness that his thoughts returned to the cabin at Walden Pond and he realized that his life could not be so simplified. He had just demonstrated to anyone who cared to observe that electric lights and, for all he knew, the rest of the modern conveniences were indispensable to his existence—a fact which La Vagante, displaying that omniscience which all women affect toward their husbands, said she had known all along.

THE VAGRANT.

The Literary Inquest

Conducted by Richard Powell

"Faraway," by J. B. Priestley. (Harper. $2.75. Pub. July 29.)

J. B. Priestley lives in constant fear that people will discover him to be a sentimentalist. As a smoke screen, he growls in ugly fashion at reviewers who compare him with Dickens. Actually, Priestley is a paradox; a sentimentalist who is unable to find any pattern in life. These two conflicting factors combine to produce a slightly uneven effect in his books. The first instance of this conflict appeared in "The Good Companions," when Priestley refused to be consistent with the romantic tone of the book by giving all his characters their hearts' desire in the final chapter. His next novel, "Angel Pavement," emphasized his morbid belief that life is a puzzle without a key, yet his sentimental views managed to creep into the book to give the reader a false impression that the book would end happily. So in "Faraway," which returns somewhat to the mood of "The Good Companions," there is a change halfway through the book from romance to cold reality.

William Dursley, the hero of "Faraway," had drifted quietly through his forty years of life, contented with his modest malting business in Suffolk, England, and with a game at "pieces" of an evening with the Grammar School mathematics professor. Only a dashing chess technique indicated that romance slumbered in William Dursley's nature. Then life rushed in, shook him awake and hustled him off to the South Seas in search of Faraway Island, whose secret he had learned from a dying uncle. His partners in the venture—Commodore Ivybridge, Ramsbottom and P. T. Riley—are the lineal heirs of the entrancing characters in "The Good Companions." The placid bachelor is whirled over to New York, across to San Francisco (where he falls in love with the fascinating Terry), and down to Tahiti. Here, after a rainbow-hued interval, life begins to show its other, grayer face to these modern Argonauts. Visions of success are realized only in part and the story ends on an inquiring, thought-provoking note.

To write an appreciation of Priestley's brilliant, sympathetically humorous style would require a book in itself. Few authors understand so well the art of striking off a portrait with a few deft touches. The scope of the story's background affords Priestley many such opportunities. Flaubert's advice to Maupassant—"You may write about a cab-horse if you make it different from all the other cab-horses that have ever lived"—might have been uttered by Priestley, for he follows it in describing both characters and scenery.

J. B. Priestley would like always to be on the road with "The Good Companions," always to be voyaging for Faraway, except for his belief that every dream has its awakening. He asks himself: Why the dream; why the awakening? The senseless chatter of life gives him no reason to believe in human progress or an existence after death. It is not for us to quarrel with Priestley's outlook. He may be closer to life, with its quests and disappointments, than other more consistent writers.

Hearsay Evidence

Oliver La Farge, who won the 1929 Pulitzer Prize with his novel, "Laughing Boy," recently condemned authors who write to make money in a lecture delivered before a writers' conference at the University of Colorado. This tirade placed Mr. La Farge in a position of condemning Homer, Virgil, Voltaire and other fairly well-known literary figures. (Mr. La Farge did not explain why he allowed his own works to be published.)

Local Movies

Narberth Theatre Notes

Graft and the "framing" of an innocent girl take place in "Night Court," vivid drama at the Narberth Theatre this Friday and Saturday night. Walter Huston, Lewis Stone, Phillips Holmes and Anita Page make this picture worth seeing.

Saturday's matinee boasts "Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood," and the second chapter of an interesting talkie version of Cooper's Indian tale, "The Last of the Mohicans."

Hollywood's hilarious burlesque on the political parade, "The Dark Horse," will entertain Narberth fans next Monday and Tuesday. In the cast are Warren William, Bette Davis and Guy Kibbee.

"This Is the Night" is a sophisticated comedy-drama, whose direction (by Frank Tuttle) and settings (Paris and Venice) and music and acting are so superb that it is sure to be rated one of the year's most enjoyable pictures. The cast includes Charlie Ruggles, Roland Young, Lily Damita, Thelma Todd and Cary Grant. It will be Narberth's feature next Wednesday and Thursday.

At the Egyptian

Beautiful gowns and elaborate settings mark "Sinners in the Sun," in which Carole Lombard and Chester Morris are featured. The picture is a story of condemning Homer, Virgil, Voltaire and other fairly well-known literary figures. (Mr. La Farge did not explain why he allowed his own works to be published.)

Anthony Wynne, whose novel, "The Green Knife," was reviewed in last week's column, is Robert McNair Wilson.

The Knopf Company is bringing out the first authorized American edition of "Lady Chatterly's Lover," by D. H. Lawrence, in September. If Knopf intends to clean up all the unauthorized editions floating around the country, he will have quite a task, none of the pirated editions carrying a publisher's imprint. This coming authorized edition will be expurgated.

"Forward From Babylon," the Louis Golding novel scheduled for issue by Farrar and Rinehart this month, was written before "Magnolia Street."

"Ashes of Scarlet," by Gyp The Wiper, "Bludgeoning Blows" by Pretty Boy Cohen, and "Thundering Hooves" by Putty Knife Grogan, are not, as you might expect, the feature stories of a new pulp paper magazine. They appear in the "Bulletin" (no relation to the Philadelphia paper), which is issued monthly by inmates

Next Monday and Tuesday

John Barrymore:
'STATES ATTORNEY'

Wednesday and Thursday

'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm'

Friday and Saturday next

Comedy-Mystery-Thriller:
'Strangers of the Evening'

NOW:

Carole Lombard,
Chester Morris:

'SINNERS in the SUN'

And a SCREEN SOUVENIR

of the California State Prison at San Quentin. Morris star at the Egyptian this Friday and Saturday. On the accompanying program, is a Screen Souvenir, reviving amusingly ancient pictures of Broncho Billy, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

An interesting plot and good acting distinguish "State's Attorney," the Egyptian's feature next Monday and Tuesday. John Barrymore heads a cast that includes William Boyd and Helen Twelvetrees. Includes a dramatic courtroom scene that only a Barrymore could do.

Sweetly sentimental and highly popular everywhere is "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, adaptation of Kate Douglas Wiggin's story. Marian Nixon and Ralph Bellamy are in it; at the Egyptian Wednesday and Thursday; recommended for everyone as good, wholesome entertainment.

Comedy in a cemetery; fun in a morgue; that's the motif of "Strangers of the Evening," a really excellent comedy-thriller, starring Zasu Pitts, Lucien Littlefield, Eugene Pallette, Tully Marshall and Miriam Seegar. Coming to Cynwyd the end of next week, it is recommended for everyone except high-strung children, who might be frightened.

Two Runs in 9th Enables Narberth to Nose Out Berwyn

hedge in center for three bases and checked in at the pay-off station on Burns' single.

It was the third successive victory for Babb, who seems to be making a comeback for the home club. Berwyn found him rather easy to hit except in the pinches, gathering 13 off his delivery, but 11 of the opponents fell on strikes and he walked four.

Burns, on the other hand, also gave 13 hits and had only three strike-out victims. He allowed the same number of free tickets. Narberth got to him early for three in the second, then scored double in the fifth and ninth.

Berwyn tallied double off Babb in the third and fifth and kept right on the heels of the Davismen, making the winner in doubt until the final out was registered.

Charley Carroll led Narberth with the bludgeon, socking three safeties, one a double, while MacGregor, with a double and single; Slaughter, King and Pitcher Babb were tie with two each.

Howdy Powell and Harry King played well on defense for the home club. Powell accepted three chances perfectly, while King caught two runners off base with rifle-like throws.

"The Making of Pennsylvania," Gift to Library of Mr. Cook

C. P. Cook, authority on local history, landmarks and old maps, appeared at the home of one of the Library trustees, early one bright morning recently, bearing $1.50 coin of the realm in his broad palm. He extended the money saying, "This is for you to buy for the Library a copy of 'The Making of Pennsylvania,' by Sydney George Fisher, with the proviso that you shall read every word of it yourself." "Must I be prepared to pass an oral examination on it?" inquired the trustee. "That might be wise," said Mr. Cook, "but I will not insist on it."

All of which might seem to indicate that Mr. Cook felt concerned, at least a dollar-and-a-half worth, regarding that trustee's individual deficiency in knowledge of Pennsylvania history. Such, actually, was not the case. Mr. Cook merely wanted to make sure that that excellent book was available for the people of Narberth and he knew that if the trustee should read it, his own judgment regarding it would be approved. He knew, also, that after being out of print for some years, that book is now available in an excellent edition, recently issued by Lippincott with a new introduction by George Wharton Pepper, to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the founding of Pennsylvania.

It is really a remarkably interesting and valuable book and there are surely many residents of Narberth who will wish to read it and who can regard it as a new book, even though it was first published in 1896. No writer on the same subject has surpassed or superseded Fisher since that time. In the first place, it is unusually well written in a style that is entertaining and easy to read and which illuminates the facts without distorting them. At the best, the early history of Pennsylvania is not so simple and easy to understand as that of many of the other original 13 colonies. From the start it is complicated with an unusual mixture of races and religions, nearly all of whom influenced the course of events, each in its own way. The descendants of many of them live and thrive in Narberth today, but it is evidently Mr. Cook's belief, in which he is probably right, that few native Pennsylvanians, to say nothing of the "outsiders" now in Narberth, know how, when or why these first settlers came, where they took up land and the parts they played in developing William Penn's gigantic domain.

There were the Dutch, the Swedes, the English, the Germans, the Scotch-Irish and the Welsh, religiously divided into Quakers, Episcopalians, Lutherans, Moravians, Mennonites, Tunkers and several other sects. Mr. Fisher's book elucidates them all, racially and religiously, and does it clearly and succinctly, with plenty of room left inside the 369 pages to narrate with equal skill the fascinating story of the border wars and boundary disputes with Virginia, Maryland and even Connecticut which troubled Pennsylvania history for more than a century.

Is it of any interest to know that the Wyoming Valley, up Wilkes-Barre way, was at one time claimed, conquered, settled and administered by Connecticut; that it was an organized part of Litchfield County, Connecticut, and sent representatives to the Connecticut Legislature at Hartford? The amazing and romantic story of the "Connecticut invasion" is graphically told in "The Making of Pennsylvania," which has been purchased with the money that Mr. Cook provided and is now available at the Community Library.

Will Aids Needy

A provision that an appropriation from the income of his estate, not to exceed $5,000 yearly, for the relief of suffering and distress, particularly cases outside the scope of organized charities, was made in the will of Edwin H. McHenry, whose estate was adjudicated in Montgomery County Court recently. Mr. McHenry died August 21, 1931. His estate was valued at $534,914.

Widow, Daughter Share Estate

Clayton I. Boyer, of Merion, disposed of an estate of $5000, in his will filed for probate in Norristown last Saturday. His widow, Gertrude Boyer, receives the income of Framcroft Manufacturing Company stock and one-half the estate. The other half is placed in trust for the education and maintenance of a daughter, Mary, who is to receive the principal when she is 25.

This overpayment is due principally to errors in addition in Tax Collector's Cash Book, and adjustment will be made in subsequent payments.

The deficit of $1,849.65 for the year ending June 30, 1932, is covered by a deposit of $4,706.13 made on July 1, 1932, which was received too late to be included in accounts for the fiscal year.

While the book balance shows a deficit of $1,849.65, the outstanding checks as of June 30, 1932, amounting to $3,201.68, actually left a bank balance of $1,352.03 on that date.

THE FIRESIDE

Mrs. J. L. Minick, of Windsor avenue, spent several days in Ocean City this week. Mrs. Minick and her daughter, Miss Erma Ruth Minick, are leaving this Saturday for a stay in Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio.

Mrs. A. J. Bawden and Miss Adeline Bawden, who are spending some time in Ocean City, have as their guests Mrs. T. E. Nickles and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Heard, of Abington, Pa., for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Sand and their small son will be the guests of Miss Bawden the latter part of the week.

Mrs. F. H. Kennedy, of Lantwyn lane, entertained the members of her club at bridge last Thursday.

Miss Mary Michener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Michener, of Elmwood avenue, is spending some time in Ocean City, where she is the guest of Miss Betty Stratton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stratton, of Merion avenue, at their summer cottage.

Mrs. Jane S. Gerhard, of Narberth Hall, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beans, of West Philadelphia, on a ten-day automobile trip through Virginia and North Carolina, returned home Tuesday.

The party stopped enroute at Richmond and Mt. Vernon, visiting the historic places of interest there, then journeyed on to Oxford, Durham and Raleigh, N. C., visiting friends, returning home via Natural Bridge and the beautiful and historic Shenandoah Valley, including a trip through the wonderful caverns of Luray, and a tour of the White House at Washington, D. C. The mileage covered on the entire trip was 1250 miles. Mrs. Lillian Ziegler, a sister of Mrs. Beans, also of West Philadelphia, was the other member of the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Rheams, of 503 Valley View road, were recent week-end guests at Lenape Village, an adult camp on Fairview Lake in the Poconos. While there they visited their son, who is a camper at Camp Lenape, on the same lake.

Estate Letters Granted

Letters of administration were granted Monday in the estate of William H. McMoran, late of Lower Merion, to Charles S. McMoran, in an estate valued at $2200.

Those State cops who drive through Wayne about one or two o'clock in the morning at 50 or 60 miles an hour, with motorcycles wide open, should have a little more respect for the laws they are paid to enforce.

By ROBERT J. EDGAR

Shorter days!

Cooler nights.

Through all the long midsummer day the meadow sides are sweet with hay. I seek the coolest sheltered seat, Just where the field and forest meet. —Trowbridge.

Fortunate are they who have a forest or woodland to provide the sheltered seat. Which goes to prove that all outdoors does not mean full sunshine—at least as far as gardens are concerned. The gay and beautiful pattern of a formal garden is a feast for the eyes in summer—if it may be viewed from the house, from a shaded terrace or porch, or from a spot on the edge of the garden, where one may rest; far from the maddening crowd, out of the heat of the summer sun, where the sight and sound of water may be seen and heard—and where the song and splashing of birds complete the picture. The fragrance of garden flowers may be added—perhaps milady's slippers will bruise the thyme along a stone path—or around the corner there has been planted flowering tobacco or night-blooming stocks. The moist air of evening carries fragrance much better than the dry air of sunny hours. And a garden should be enjoyed in evening, when there is time to appreciate it.

It has been said that the time to prune is when the saw is sharp. In looking around at the many shrubs, climbing roses and trees that have never been pruned, it would seem that some had better been pruned at the wrong time than never to have been cleaned at all. Deciduous shrubs, those that drop their leaves in winter, make new growth—from the ground—every year. Question:—What happens to the old wood? On unpruned shrubs it remains and the plant tries to make new growth on top of old, which means that the plant has so many stems, new and old, that it becomes a thicket of woody stems; the few and poor flowers are out of reach and the bare stems below are unsightly. The same shrub, carefully pruned, will have the old wood removed, as it has done its bit; new stems will grow from the base—these stems will be foliated to the ground and will flower well in proper season. The shrub will be shapely, full flowered and a thing of beauty. Old stems are harboring places for scale insects and borers and gathering places for leaves, slugs and insects. The important consideration is to prune shrubs after they have flowered—in order to give the maximum time in which to develop new growth for the coming season. Pruning the tips of stems only removes the flower buds of the coming season and removes live wood instead of dead wood. Any time when the plant is not in active growth is a good time to prune. Any time is a bad time to "trim" shrubs. All that has been said about shrubs may be applied to bush or climbing roses, as these are, after all, deciduous shrubs.

Hibiscus in flower. Also called marshmallow and rosemallow. They look like shrubs, five to six feet tall, but are really hardy herbaceous perennial plants. The choice color is the mallow-pink, a light rose color with a faint flush of salmon. Also offered in white or bright red. This is one of the families that Japanese beetles have a fondness for, but they seem easily discouraged from the mallow. If you like big, pink flowers, ten inches in diameter, and have a place in fair sun and soil that does not dry out, you may enjoy hibiscus. To be planted in spring. Also easily raised from seed of the separate colors.

Inspect the evergreen azaleas for lace wing fly and spray the under-leaves with a contact insecticide. Either pyrethrum-roteneone-soap, pyrethrum-soap or nicotine-soap, whichever is convenient. As to spraying—don't put it off—put it on.

Police Chase Stolen Car, Abandoned Along Schuylkill

Three men abandoned a stolen automobile and escaped after a 2-mile chase along the Schuylkill river road, between West Manayunk and Gladwynne, early Monday.

They disappeared in the shrubbery at the river's edge, and at least one of them is believed to have plunged into the water.

The automobile, property of W. Herbert Adams, Jr., Montgomery avenue, Haverford, a real estate dealer, was stolen Sunday night at City and Bryn Mawr avenues.

will be playground champs, as they both won the first half in their respective leagues.

Lees Wins Tennis Tourney

Paul Lees smashed and volleyed his way through a host of Narberth tennis players to win the adult tennis championship. Ray Stanley, his opponent in the finals, put up a great fight, but finally weakened, due to Lees' net attacks. The score was 6-4, 6-2.

Sam Wilson, who fought his way to the semi-finals, displayed some good tennis; in fact, the Stanley-Wilson match was better to look at than the finalists' match.

Jones Wins Sr. Boys' Tournament

Allen Jones easily defeated Bill Hemsley in the finals of the annual Senior Boys' Tournament: 6-3, 6-4.

Donahue, Jones and Hemsley were the boys who battled their way to the semi-finals. But Hemsley drew a bye in this round—so Jones had to play Donahue first. He had a tough time beating him, nevertheless—7-5.

The following are the entries:

Gilroy, Gallagher; Wright, Heath; Stray, Esslinger; Rittenhouse, Donahue; Speed, Woolmington; Heally, Murray; Smith, Bossone; Heim, Jones; Bartlett, Ross; Weiss, Aiken; Griffin, Hemsley; Burns, Darbert.

Deck Tennis Tournament for girls ranging from 13 to 19 years of age was won by Emily Egerton.

The entries in the tournament were as follows:

Nancy Donahue, Emily Egerton, Dorothe Harlick, Anne Roesler, Eleanor Weld, Jeanette Murphy, Ethel Voight, Freda Roesler, Jeane Harlick, Mary Duffey, Alice Callahan, Lucile Baker, Ingeberg Thaysen, Mary Case.

A Puppet Show prepared by the primary group will be presented Thursday, August 25, at 2.30 P. M. Everybody is welcome!

A Soap Bubble Contest for girls and boys 13 years of age and under will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The latest project, clay modeling, will be completed by the object group on Monday night. The objects to be made are: fish, trays, figures and paper lanterns.

The little children have borrowed the atmosphere of Holland, with their gay-colored windmills.

Roast Pig Offered as Chinese Visit Cemetery

As their ancestors did periodically for thousands of years, Chinese long members have again placed food on the graves of their dead.

What the departed Celestials loved in life was again offered by descendants who thronged the Merion Cemetery, Conshohocken State and Rockhill roads, West Manayunk, Sunday.

Following the custom of visiting the cemetery in August and April of each year, nearly 500 Chinese men from Philadelphia paid the semi-annual visit in a body.

Succulent roast whole pig, chickens, native drink, bowls of rice with chop sticks, apples, oranges and even cigarettes were offered to their death fathers. Joss sticks were burned and fire-crackers set off over particularly honored graves.

While the joss stick bundles smoked over the graves, Chinese paper money and prayers were laid on pyres and burned in order that they might go straight to heaven for the use of the departed.

Many curious spectators watched while the food, roast pig being the principal item, was placed on graves. After a while, the spirit having broken its fast, the food was removed. A carton of cigarettes was burned for one who, it was explained, was inordinately fond of them in life.

Until recently the gifts remained on the graves during the night, but vandals who desecrated the ceremony by stealing the food, put a stop to it. Now everything is taken back to the city almost immediately.

town, and at the Shearer School, Pittsburgh.

I B. Knoll, who was subsequently appointed as Eighth Grade science, metal work and mechanical drawing teacher, is a specialist in these fields, having graduated from Millersville State Teachers' College and done work at Carnegie Tech and Penn State.

The Narberth Eighth Grade was first sent to Lower Merion Junior High in 1929. It remained there in 1930, but in 1931 it was brought back to Narberth following the remodeling of the Narberth school building at a cost of $57,000.

The public meetings on education held at the Borough Community Building last winter developed the proposal of merging the Borough with the Township as a means of overcoming the school problem of rising expenses and stationary revenue.

Miami Beach Girls Provide Entertainment

blonde playing second base, by the name of Dot Fisher. We noticed that they tried mighty hard to get caught off base and be tagged out by Miss Fisher, who is said to be learning the art of hair dressing.

However, she took leave of the premises without so much as giving a wave to any of her male admirers.

Narberth scored at will and, although the Beach Girls played with lots of sand, they were not match for the big he-man rivals.

The prize play of the night had Manager Davis and George Babb as the principals. With Babb on first base, Gene poked a single and ran to third and on to first as Babb raced home and pulled up at the hot corner. The stands fairly shook with the roar of laughter coming from the crowd, which thoroughly enjoyed the comedy.

Jimmy Noblitt, former Paoli star and present Bryn Mawr moundsman, was imported to pitch against the South Phils and hurled a good brand of ball, as did Jimmy Gilroy for the opponents.

Noblitt was touched for eight hits, struck out six and issued two passes, while Gilroy gave seven hits, whiffed seven and gave a brace of walks also.

The Quaker City club scored two runs in the third, when Gilroy singled, Rube Chambers tripled, scoring him, and checked baggage later on Roetz's fly to center field.

The homesters came through in the seventh with one on singles by Barney Slaughter and Harry King; then as darkness spread over the field in the following canto, the ultimate winner added the final score of the game on Roetz's double and Black's one-bagger.

Black and Logan starred on defense for the Phils, while Walt MacGregor and Howdy Powell played well for Narberth.

Three New Plays to be Performed at Hedgerow

One performance of each of the three newest plays in the repertory—all of them American—is to be given in the program of the Hedgerow Theatre in Rose Valley for the coming week, which also includes three works by English authors, which have won for themselves a well-established place in the list of eighty-seven productions. One of the old favorites, "The Romantic Age," by A. A. Milne, with Frances Torchiana, Ferd Nofer, and William Price in principal roles, opens the week on Monday night. The first of the three new plays, Lynn Riggs' "The Cherokee Night," which has set argument waging by its high disdain for conventional theatre forms, is the play for Tuesday with a large cast to portray the characters throughout its seven scenes. On Wednesday G. B. Shaw's ever-amusing comedy on war and love, "Arms and the Man," is to be presented. The second of the new pieces, Albert Bein's "The Heavenly Express," that has a "diamond for a headlight, runs on platinum wheels and shoots all curves like a meteor," will be seen on Thursday night. Friday night's drama is the work of St. John Ervine—"The Ship," a story of three generations, one of whose delight is in shipbuilding. "Spring Song," by Bella Spewack, the most recent of the premieres, is the presentation for next Saturday night. This is the play about Jewish family life which has obtained a most enthusiastic reception by both Jews and non-Jews at each of its showings.

Tonight's play at Hedgerow Theatre is "The Heavenly Express," and tomorrow night's Lennox Robinson's Irish comedy, "The Whiteheaded Boy."

Word From Schrepfer

A card received this week from Frank A. Schrepfer, who is abroad for a Sabbatical year of travel and study, says, "Five issues of 'Our Town' caught up with us today. It's fine to get the home news." He was spending a week at Mittenwald, Germany, enroute to Austria and Italy.

Leaves $56,859 Estate

An estate valued at $56,850 was left by Mrs. Dorothea Wurts Wilson, who died at her home, 6 College Circle, Haverford, on July 6, according to an inventory filed at Norristown recently. Her will, filed July 28, bequeathed her estate to her daughter, Elizabeth D. W. Macon, and other relatives.

Fall Show the 16th

One of the interesting Main Line events of September will be the Fall Flower Show on September 16 sponsored by the Woman's Club of Ardmore. All flower lovers of nearby communities are urged to send in their entries. The time of the Show is from two until nine o'clock and will be held in the club rooms. Mrs. Cecil H. Vaughan is the Chairman.

TEN STEPS in the Right Direction

We ask that you consider our trust services primarily from a business viewpoint. Inform yourself about them because they offer you a way to guard your estate against unnecessary depreciation, and to take steps which should increase the inheritance of your heirs.

There are ten of these steps, each of which is explained in our new booklet—"In Black and White." Study these steps and you will see that there are at least several which are well worth your consideration if you desire to minimize shrinkage in the assets of your estate.

This booklet was written for business men who know that economy is important in any sound business arrangement—especially in estate planning where money-saving is but another term for increased family protection. Call at our Broad Street Office (Trust Department) for a copy of this booklet.

If you desire, a member of our Trust Department will discuss this subject with you, without obligation.

The fiduciary experience of Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company dates from 1866. Today it is managing individual trust funds which exceed $967,000,000.
